

and "If I Had My Way."

At the finale the Chordsmen exited the stage singing their traditional song, "Keep the Whole World Singing" as they shook hands and thanked the audience for coming.

Featured at the show for the first time was a Youth In Harmony program, an outreach activity of the Harmony Society. The program's main purpose is to bring awareness of four-part a cappella singing to local young people and to teach them the method.

This year, under the direction and supervision of Dr. Andre Brillaud, and with the assistance of Beach Music, a local registered quartet of the Cape Fear Chordsmen, this outreach program touched many high school students in Cape Fear Academy and Laney High School. The method in singing "barber shop" was taught to many students, and a competition was held among the high school quartets.

The winners were the Hurricanes from Cape Fear Academy and the Barbuh-Tones from Laney High School.

Also winners and appearing in the show, among the young female competitors, were the Foxy Four from Laney High. The YIH program is expected to be expanded for next year's competition to more high schools.

Chordsmen hold annual show, teach high school students

WILMINGTON | The Cape Fear Chordsmen excited patrons at their May 2 annual show at Kenan Auditorium with "Love's Twilight Zone," a musical journey. The performance began with the love song "My Honey's Loving Arms" and finished with
